2004

Sunday, March 21
*Reception at the home of Pat Thompson, independent Documentary producer and Jim Bittermann, senior European CNN correspondent, with a talk by our hosts: "Informed, Irreverent and Unblinking."

Monday, March 22

Why It's Hard To Get The Truth Across." Barry Lando, former Sixty Minutes European producer and investigative reporter.

*Visit to France II & III Television Studios for a tour and presentation. Meet Karina Chabour in the lobby.

"What is News and What is a Journalist? A European Perspective." Barry James, professor at AUP, Agence France Presse (AFP) (journalist) and former senior correspondent at The International Herald Tribune.

Tuesday, March 23
David Ignatius, senior correspondent and columnist at the Washington Post. Former executive editor of the International Herald Tribune. Mr. Ignatius will talk in part about his recent experiences covering the Middle East and the Iraq War.

*Visit to the OECD Headquarters. The visit includes a short film and talks by Benjamin Chang, executive assistant to the US Ambassador to the leading international organization and Meggan Dissly, principal OECD administrator for public affairs and communications.

Wednesday, March 24
"What Is It Like to be an International Journalist?" Panel including: Diane Seligshon, Radio France International, specialist on Africa; Brett Kline, France 2 TV; Joanne Dandres, Longtime radio host in Qatar.

“France Looks at the World and the World Looks at France.” Guillaume Parmentier, director of the French Center on the United States, Institute of French International Relations.

Thursday, March 25
*Visit to Libération, "A Close Up Look at a Leading French Daily." Tour of a unique building, meeting with François Sergent, former foreign correspondent in London for Liberation and in the US, and long-time English language editor.

*Buffet dinner at the home of Lee and Berna Huebner. “The New Britain and the New Europe.” Baroness Gloria Hooper, member of the British House of Lords and Member of the Council of Europe.

Friday, March 26

"Confessions of a Lifelong International Marketer." Peter Barnet, Professor, American University of Paris, former executive VP for international advertising at Young & Rubicam and other global advertising agencies.

Henri Pigeat, former president and CEO of Agence France Presse (AFP).